Conductor Tosses Colored Man Through Vestibule and Riot Follows.

Last night a miniature riot was pre cipitated in a car of the Washington and Falls Church line, because of the refusal of a colored man to vacate a seat near the front opening. Several other colored persons were in the car, and when the conductor, under authority of the Jim Crow law, attempted to eject the passenger, they made a demonstration

Upon the flat refusal of the man to leave a front seat, the conductor, who was about half the size of the passenger, selzed him by the coat, and jerked him to his feet. As the colored man was about to strike the conductor, the latter drew a black jack from his pocket, and dealt him a blow on the left side of the head.

and dealt him a blow on the left side of the head.

Although dazed by the blow, which lacerated his scalp, the colored man lunged toward the conductor. His right arm shot through the glass window of the vestbule. Instantly his legs were seized, and in a moment he was pitched out on the fender, and then thrown to the side of the track. The motorman was given the two bell signal, and proceeded on his journey to Falls Church.

The Rev. Father Fink said the church and community suffered a heavy loss when the hand of God removed Mr. Gleeson. He said Mr. Gleeson was a man among men, and to know him and understand him was to love him. Mr. Gleeson's favorite hymns were sung at the services.

Mr. Gleeson's friends, relatives, and admirers crowded the church, while out. ide stood a large number of artisans in rough clothes, who had been em-ployed at various times by the contractor. Although their attire, to their minds, prohibited them from entering the church, they wanted to pay a final tribute to the man they had served for so many years, and did this by removing their hats as the body was carried into and out of the church.
